

July was more than good. The big monoplane, according to the weather bureau, had a following wind as far as longitude 45.

May Face Mid Ocean Storm.

In the center of the ocean there is a low pressure area, moving slowly to the northeast, and when it was about half way across, soon after dark, it was likely that the Friendship ran into rain and winds shifting from north to east. By this time, however, the plane would be fairly light and Stults, a skillful and careful flyer, was noted for his ability to handle big ships, would probably use a little of his precious fuel to climb in an attempt both to get over the top of the disturbance into clear weather and to find a west wind.

Weather experts who plotted roughly the weather and flying speed of the Friendship after getting the latest reports from the weather bureau to light figured the earliest possible hour for the arrival of the plane over Valencia would be around 7 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time.

They believe the flying speed of the plane through the low pressure area will be cut to 50 or 60 miles an hour instead of 70 or 80, and the unfavorable winds brought by this disturbance may prevail for five or six hundred miles instead of less than 200. If this should be so, and Stults should be unable to drive the plane above the disturbance to a region of favorable or neutral winds as he hoped, the crossing is likely to take several hours longer than twenty hours.

Fly Out of Fog.

The first message received from the Friendship after the takeoff came to George Palmer Putnam, who is conducting the flight arrangements at this end of the trip. Frederick Guest, formerly Amy Phipps of Pittsburgh, the wife of Capt. Frederick Guest, former British secretary of state for air, Mrs. Guest is the flight's backer. This first message was received from Cape Race by cable, and read as follows:

"Out of fog now; clear weather." It was forward by Cape Race at 11:15, eastern daylight time.

Stults Sends Message to Wife.

An hour later Mrs. Stults at her home in Hempstead, Long Island, received the following cable from her husband, wireless from the plane to Cape Race:

"Passed through banks of snow, fog and hail; clear weather now; everything going fine."

FRIENDSHIP HOPS OFF

BY JOHN M. BROWNE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 17.—The trimotored plane Friendship, carrying Miss Amelia Earhart, former Chicago girl, Wilmer Stults, pilot, and Lou Gordon, mechanic, is well on its way over the Atlantic tonight in its attempt to span the treacherous passage of some 1,900 miles to Europe.

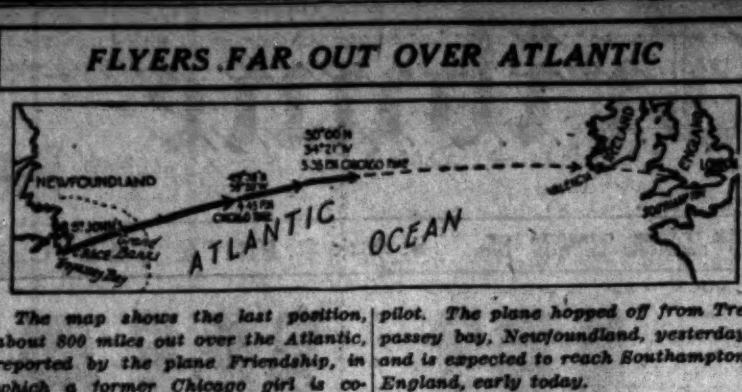

The plane, in which Miss Earhart hopes to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, hopped off from Trepassey bay at 12:21 p. m. local time (9:51 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time). At 12:40 p. m. it passed over Cape Race, about 20 miles north of Cape Sable, indicating it is following the route of the North Atlantic liners.

A wind from the southwest and clear strong breeze favored the aviators, and in five minutes after the takeoff the plane was completely out of sight.

Miss Mabel Bell's plane, Columbia, at Barber's Point, N. F., was expected to start on an Atlantic hop at daylight tomorrow.

Throws Out Oil and Gas.

As a precaution this morning it was feared that today was to mark a repeat of the previous days' unsuccessful attempts to get the giant plane to rise above the waters of Trepassey bay. Five times the propellers dug vainly into the breeze; the plane skidded on the water over a stretch of about two and a half miles, but stayed on the surface of the water, each time a few gallons of oil were discharged to lighten the load.

Toward 11 o'clock, the crew started to dump gasoline overboard, determined to get the craft into the air at any cost. Four 4 gallon cans were thrown into the waters of the bay, the moorings were cast off, and the plane drifted two miles northeast. After great failure to rise, more cans of gasoline were thrown from the plane.

Girl Expresses Confidence.

Then, on the sixth attempt, the plane ran to nearly the center of the harbor and left the water at 12:19 p. m., but slumped back after racing another mile. It finally left the water at 12:21, flew out toward the sea for five miles, circled over the harbor, at an altitude of 50 feet, straightened out in an easterly direction, and disappeared in the direction of Portugal Cove, to the south. A 20 mile westerly breeze was behind the plane.

Miss Earhart, as she boarded the plane early this morning, said, "We have a dandy breeze behind us and we are going today in spite of everything."

Stults was quite worried and agitated, and refused to have much to say to the newspapermen. He declared if they came down in a heavy sea the plane would not last a minute.

The aviators took as food a gallon can and a half thermos bottle of soup, a quart of milk, black coffee, and sandwiches.

The call WOX will be sent out at frequent intervals at a wave length of 690 meters.

Face Only Fair Weather.

TREPASSEY, N. F., June 17.—(AP)—When the monoplane Friendship hopped off from here for a trans-Atlantic flight today weather bureau reports indicated the flyers would have little better than possible flying weather, at least over the first half of their course, which is laid along the great circle. Should weather conditions threaten success of a safe passage to Ireland, Pilot Wilmer Stults said he would alter his course and head for the Azores.

If the flight is accomplished, Miss Amelia Earhart, co-pilot, will have achieved the honor of being the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. Three women have lost their lives and another was forced down at sea and picked up by a ship, in attempts to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, hopped off from Trepassey bay at 12:21 p. m. local time (9:51 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time).

At 12:40 p. m. it passed over Cape Race, about 20 miles north of Cape Sable, indicating it is following the route of the North Atlantic liners.

SAFETY DEVICES GUARD GIRL ON OCEAN FLIGHT

Winnetka Man Tells of Plane's Equipment.

The plane Friendship, in which Miss Amelia Earhart and two men were flying toward England last night, is probably better equipped with safety devices than any machine in which trans-oceanic flight has been attempted, according to Robert E. B. Elmer, of 559 Spruce street, Winnetka.

Mr. Elmer, a graduate of Ann Arbor in the same class as Commander Richard E. Byrd, was in charge of preparing the big Fokker plane for the flight, and worked for several weeks in Boston on it.

"Commander Byrd acted as an aviation attorney when the plane was bought for Mrs. Frederick B. Guest, the backer," Mr. Elmer explained.

"When Commander Byrd learned that a woman was to go with the pilots, he insisted that every known safety device should be included in the equipment. The plane had wheeled landing gear and this had to be changed. I was placed in charge of the work by the commander.

"There was a long delay, as the pontoons had to be ordered from Germany.

"These pontoons are so arranged that only the heaviest seas will prevent a descent to the surface. Under ordinary circumstances the mechanic can make repairs, standing on the

MOTHER AND SISTER OF GIRL FLYER FEEL CERTAIN SHE'LL WIN

Medford, Mass., June 17.—(AP)—Muriel Earhart, sister of Amelia Earhart, who hopped off for Europe today, was highly elated tonight over the optimistic reports from the Friendship received since the takeoff from Trepassey, N. F.

Miss Earhart and her mother are keeping in constant touch with the latest radio messages from the Friendship and with each succeeding bit of news they abide more and more by Amelia Earhart's parting advice, "Don't worry."

With the conviction that she will "make it all right," Miss Muriel Earhart said tonight that she and her mother were somewhat surprised to hear that the Friendship had taken off today.

"We thought that they were going tomorrow," she said.

POLICEMAN VOWS TO KILL SLAYER OF HIS BROTHER

"I'll kill you if I swing for it!"

Sergeant Charles O'Connor of the detective bureau yesterday shouted these words into the face of John Dempsey, 23, of 5236 South Union avenue, confessed slayer of O'Connor's brother, William, also a policeman. The encounter took place just at the close of the weekly showup of suspects at the Des Plaines street station.

Dempsey, with Alfred Mallette, 21, and Edward Domker, also 21, were holding up a saloon in South Halsted street when one of the patrons slipped out the back door to call Police-man William O'Connor, 35 years old. O'Connor met the hapdits as they were coming out the door and while Mallette and Domker engaged the policeman in a scuffle, Dempsey stepped around behind him, placed the revolver behind his ear and shot him dead.

Earl Woodward, 20, involved in robberies with Dempsey and his companions was arrested later in the evening. Woodward, when he was 16 years old, was acquitted of the murder of Joseph Kazanow. He is at present under parole from Pontiac reformatory where he was sent to serve from 3 to 30 years for robbery. Attorney Charles J. Russell, 111 West Monroe street, was arrested when Woodward told police he had given him a stolen watch valued at $350 as payment for services.

PROHIBITION LAW LIFTED FOR G. O. P. HOSTS IN KANSAS CITY

Result: It's Voted Ideal Convention Site.

AT ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Kansas City, Mo., June 17.—(Special)—It was fortunate for Kansas City that the prohibition law was repealed, so far as this fair town is concerned, before the Republican national convention arrived.

In that circumstance the city is indebted for the reputation it won as the perfect convention host. As a result of the temporary repeal of the law, the hospitable people of Kansas City were enabled to obtain probably as large and varied a supply of liquors as ever was provided for the entertainment of a national convention and to dispense them lavishly without the hindrance of the prohibition agents.

Weather Adds to Comfort. Of course, the reputation of Kansas City as the perfect convention host was not spring wholly from its climate. It demonstrated that its hotel facilities were ample. Everybody was comfortably lodged and well fed without being robbed. These hearty westerners just laid themselves out to give everybody a good time. And the weather was a delightful surprise. We who came to staid remained to enjoy—most pleasantly.

But it was the liquor that put a kick in the hospitality dispensed by Kansas City. Long before the adjournment the delegates were indulging in the pleasures of the Kansas City as the permanent headquarters for the Republican national meeting place of the Republican party.

Fifteen Barrels of Bottles a Day. What happened was exactly what it was predicted would happen on the repeal of the prohibition law. There was much tipping. In many a room in every hotel the happy drinkers gathered. Over the transoms floated the mists of cracked ice against glass and the cheery apostrophe "Well, here's to you."

Bellboys and waiters were rushing hither and thither bearing trays stacked with bowls of cracked ice and glasses and bottles of charged wine. Just before daylight every morning wagon made the rounds of the hotels, gathering up the empty liquor bottles collected from the rooms. For one of the larger hotels the average was fifteen barrels of quart and pint bottles a day.

If you knew how or were widely acquainted, you could get any kind of a drink your thirst might crave. "Black and White" or "Hale and Hale" or "Old Crow" or "Old Smuggler," "Highland Queen," Gordon gin, Three Star Hennessy—all the old favorites, and at one oasis, the fame of which spread far among the delegates of the dry old party, a distinguished southern colonel with a white goatee would confer upon you the privilege of burying your nose in a bouquet of mint garnishing a julep from which you could scrape the hoarfrost with your finger nail.

And the Kansas City people do know how to throw a cocktail party. You see, the law had been repealed just before the convention met and these people had the stuff and plenty of it and they poured out their liquor with their hearts. God bless them. And the dinners, wow! They would begin with a cocktail and then wait for you along to wine or mayhap, a highball, and wound up with a liqueur.

Celebrate Dry Plank. But at none of these joyous libations were the highball glasses raised to parched lips with such gusto as at that midnight hour when the resolutions committee broke up after adopting the driest prohibition plank ever written into a platform even of the G. O. P.—the bone dry plank incorporated at the behest of the Anti-Saloon league. It had been a long and grueling session and many a head had been wearied in devising language adequately to convey the determination of the party to enforce this particular amendment to the constitution. What wonder that drooping champions of Volsteadism should retreat to the hotel suites to fill their glasses with reviving hooch.

A couple of months ago Mr. Mellon's prohibition enforcement bureau announced that it intended to make

RECORD QUAKE ROCKS MEXICO FOR 43 MINUTES

Oaxaca Is Center of Violent Tremors.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MEXICO CITY, June 17.—Many small buildings and church spires in the state of Oaxaca were thrown down by a severe earthquake which rocked the southern plateau of Mexico last night. Slight tremors continued today. The focus of the disturbance was about 400 miles southwest of Mexico City. Oaxaca was just recovering from the disastrous quakes of several weeks ago.

All reports indicate that it was one of the worst earthquakes which have happened to Mexico since 1912. It lasted forty-three minutes. There were four minutes of one of the most violent oscillatory motions ever recorded at the observatory at Tacubaya.

Panic in Theater. A panic at the Teatro Politeama resulted in scores of minor injuries, but no losses of life. The theater, which holds 4,500 people, was packed when the quake got under way. The flimsily constructed building began to sway and there was a rush through the narrow exits. Many women got to the streets with their clothing torn off.

A party of visiting Americans at the Hotel Regis fled to the street. They arrived there at the height of the disturbance and the group of them were thrown to the sidewalk.

Damage Is Light. It will cost $50,000 to repair the damages to the pavements in Mexico City caused by the earthquake. Many plate glass windows were strewn over the sidewalks today and here and there a building, which had survived earthquakes for centuries, was out of plumb. No loss of life had been reported late today, but it is feared many had been buried beneath falling buildings in Oaxaca.

Fred A. Matthews, 50 years old, for the last 20 years a boarder in her home, told the police he had no knowledge of her savings.

PER CAPITA TAX PUT AT $99.80 IN COOK COUNTY

Figures Support Borah's Charge of Waste.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Senator William E. Borah, in a recent article under his signature, made a vehement attack on the "remorseless drift" of extravagance in government, which he predicted is headed for an annual tax of $100 per capita. He nailed the blame upon bureaucracy—"the most wasteful, demoralizing and deadly form of government which God has ever permitted to torture the human family."

If a tax burden of $100 per capita is evidence of the "most wasteful, demoralizing and deadly form of government," as Senator Borah indicates, then Cook county has almost arrived at that point.

Cook County's Per Capita Tax. It is interesting to reckon how close Cook county is to the senator's demoralization line. The federal census bureau estimated the county's population last December at 2,553,448. On these persons there was levied in state, county, city, school, and other local taxes last year an aggregate of $195,231,137.

The federal government collected $192,450,034 in income taxes from residents of Illinois. No authoritative figures on income taxes are available for Cook county, but the collections by internal revenue districts in previous years indicate that upwards of 70 per cent of the state's income taxes come out of the pockets of Cook county residents. To be moderate, assume that only two-thirds is paid in Cook county. Then the county's income tax payments last year totaled $124,966,688.

$99.80 a Person This Year. This sum added to the local taxes of $195,231,137, gives an aggregate of $299,197,825 as the Cook county tax bill for last year.

That is $99.81 per capita—$10 short of Borah's $100 mark. This year the per capita taxes in Cook county will be still higher. For state and local purposes there has been levied $34,781,747 more in taxes this year than last. That is a per capita tax of $9.78. Add that to the $99.81 per capita tax of last year, and the total in Cook county is $99.80—two thin times below the Borah $100 mark.

Quited States Gives Helping Hand. Next year the tax drain on Cook county will be lower if the federal authorities have any influence. Less than a month ago congress reduced the income tax schedules an estimated $23,000,000 for the nation. As Illinois ordinarily pays about one-eleventh of the country's income taxes, and it is assumed that Cook county settles for two-thirds of the state's share, the residents of this county will get a saving from the federal government next year of about $18,500,000.

More Taxes Sighted Ahead. But part of this may be taken away from the people by the local tax collectors. It is pointed out. At any rate, that is the trend. It has been the custom four times out of five for a new governor in Illinois to increase the tax rate over the previous year.

The city government overlooked the legal right this year to collect about $1,000,000 more in taxes. Judging from the official complaints of the lack of revenue, the city might be expected to exercise that privilege next year.

The south park commission on June 4 obtained the right to issue $18,000,000 in additional bonds. Probably the sinking fund and interest will add another $1,000,000 to the tax assessments next year. If all the bonds are issued, however, the interest and sinking fund charges will amount to $1,300,000 for 1928. Other tax spenders will probably have still more loans to make.

There hasn't been a year since 1913 when Cook county's tax bill for state and local expenses has not been

HOOPER TAUGHT DOLLAR'S VALUE AS ORPHAN BOY

Guardian's Records Bare Struggle for Education.

BY MARJORIE PETERS.

[Caption: Herbert Hoover learned early to expect one hundred blows before he was born.]
From the time he was nine years old he was a victim of his actions and to be circumvented enough to fit into the pondered written reports of his guardian, old Laurie Tatum, remained older of the Society of Friends in the little village of Springfield, Ia. He had behind Laurie Tatum and the other county court to which, in turn, he was accountable, stood all the Hoover and Minthorn Quaker relatives, who demanded straight and narrow paths for Herbert and for his mother and sister, orphaned at the death of James and Hulda Hoover.

There was little chance for impulse in Herbert's life. He was a victim of his actions and to be circumvented enough to fit into the pondered written reports of his guardian, old Laurie Tatum, remained older of the Society of Friends in the little village of Springfield, Ia. He had behind Laurie Tatum and the other county court to which, in turn, he was accountable, stood all the Hoover and Minthorn Quaker relatives, who demanded straight and narrow paths for Herbert and for his mother and sister, orphaned at the death of James and Hulda Hoover.

A Record of Boyhood.
He was a fat, bald and smooth faced little Quaker, who liked to gather a group of boys at his house, ostensibly to show them a group of Indian relics he possessed, but in reality to induce a temperance pledge which his fatherly hospitality obliged them to sign.

At least six times in his life during moments of exhortation against the names of the younger generation he repeated the end of the world, telling the exact day, hour and minute. In the courtyards at Tipton, Ia., east of Cedar county, is a three pound packet of yellow paper—the complete record of the youth of Herbert Hoover—laboriously set down in the wavery handwriting of this old Quaker

Hoover's Home Town Celebrates His Nomination

Part of the crowd and the speakers' stand at West Branch, Ia., where Herbert Hoover was born. The town celebrated the event on the day after the Kansas City convention had nominated the secretary of commerce.

brother. A record demanded by the court, revealing in detail the kindly privations, the daily repressions, the careful wishes and ambitions of the three Hoover children.

The first of the packet shows that in some incredible fashion in those years of hardship after her husband died, Hulda Hoover managed to retain a thousand dollars insurance, which Laurie Tatum was able to collect for the children by going in person to the Mutual Relief association in Cedar Rapids, Ia. There was also left the tiny homestead and the blacksmith shop in West Branch.

The children were distributed to relative, Herbert to Uncle Allen and Aunt Millie east of West Branch, Theodore to Uncle Davis, and Mary to Grandmother Mary Minthorn. For a time they were boarded first with one relative, then another.

In actual cash from the insurance in the beginning there was for each of the children $332.33 1/3. As soon as possible Laurie Tatum sold the property for them, and his 1887 reports show cash for Theodore, $928.25; for Mary, $950.70, and for Herbert, $712.48. The difference in amounts resulted from the different living conditions of the three during the years.

None of the Hoovers had enough in these days to be able to keep the children gratis in their own households, apparently. Thus we find Herbert's small amount dwindling in careful sums all the way down the pages of these yellow records.

There is an itemized account and receipted bill for clothing purchased for him during months that he lived in the J. G. Hoover home. There are receipted board bills [at $1.50 a week] from the Allen Hoover household, and for clothing and the making of part of it by his Aunt Millie.

During 1888 Dr. H. J. Minthorn, who had removed to Salem, Ore., and was desirous of starting a Quaker college there, sent for his nephew, Herbert, and the railroad fare, as shown by Laurie Tatum's report of that year, was duly extracted from his little account, reducing it to $664.93.

Was Laurie Tatum's Approval.
The Minthorns met with the thorough approval of Laurie Tatum, the records show, for when, during the next year, they sent also for Theodore, the recommendation to the court favored the change, stating that the uncle and aunt were "efficient teachers and worthy Christians."

Later in the same year Mary also went to Salem, Ore., and Theodore entered Pacific academy, paying board to his uncle.

Dr. Minthorn and his wife never charged Herbert board money in the early days, according to these records. In Nov. 19, 1888, Laurie Tatum wrote to the court.

Scholarship Is Asked.

"Dr. H. J. Minthorn of Salem, Ore., the letter said, 'has for some years had the care of my ward, Herbert C. Hoover, and has boarded and clothed him and sent him to the public school without charge, but now Herbert C. Hoover wishes to purchase a scholarship in a business college of that city which will cost sixty dollars. His uncle, H. J. Minthorn, wishes me to pay for the scholarship and writes me:

'I think if he had the scholarship he would make good use of it and get the full benefit of it.'

"I think it would be for his best interest to have the scholarship and therefore ask the court for the authority to purchase it."

Mary, at 16, wished to enter the state university of Oregon and Laurie Tatum recommended this move as he also did Theodore's attendance at Penn college. While they were in school and Herbert in business college, records show their tiny accounts lessening slowly for board and room at their uncle's house.

Off to Leland Stanford.

Between items of careful arithmetic is a note in the old Quaker's handwriting on Herbert's report for 1891. It says that the boy had "supported himself with work in a real estate office in Salem" and states that he wishes to go to Leland Stanford to make mechanical engineering his specialty.

In 1893 school expenses at Stanford had reduced Herbert's account to $110.34. Following is the notation in the court records:

"During the school year Herbert Hoover was a student at Leland Stanford university. He made very good progress with his studies. During the vacation he was employed by one of the professors to assist in the state geological survey of Arkansas. For this he was credited in the university by six months university work, and he also received during this time $5 dollars a month."

1894 Report on Herbert.

The year 1894 shows Herbert's funds in the hands of his guardian reduced to $12.74. A report of consistent careful study and conduct is given. Laurie Tatum wrote:
"Herbert C. Hoover is making excellent progress at Leland Stanford. Although his funds in my hands are about exhausted, yet he is ambitious to complete his course at the university, and I think he will succeed, as he is frugal, industrious, and energetic."

Theodore came of age in 1892 with $31.05 to his credit. Mary, after attending Polytechnical Institute of the Friends at Salem, four years later, had over $400.

Publicly Waived Early.

Laurie Tatum drew up the final report for Herbert with the same meticulous honesty as for the others, and secured the young man's receipt for the amount paid over.

The last paper in the whole yellowed pack in the court house at Tipton reveals in the boy the reticence about making personal affairs public which has characterized Herbert Hoover throughout his public life.

Just below the writing with which Laurie Tatum brought his work to a measured close—"Comes now Laurie Tatum, guardian of the person and the estate of Herbert C. Hoover"—is the following, signed first in pencil and then traced over in ink in the young man's handwriting:

"I hereby authorize Laurie Tatum to waive publication of notice of this final report."

"HERBERT C. HOOPER."

HOOVER MAY FIX DATE OF LEAVING CABINET TODAY

Party Chiefs Will Discuss Campaign with Him.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—(Special.)—Plans for conducting the Republican campaign will be mapped out at a series of conferences between Secretary Hoover and party leaders beginning tomorrow.

Among the problems slated for discussion are the date of the commerce secretary's resignation, selection of a chairman for the Republican National committee and other national committee officers. The nature of the campaign to be conducted by Herbert Hoover as the presidential nominee and Charles Curtis, his running mate, also will come up for consideration. Another matter to be discussed is when Mr. Hoover formally will accept the nomination at his home in Palo Alto, Cal.

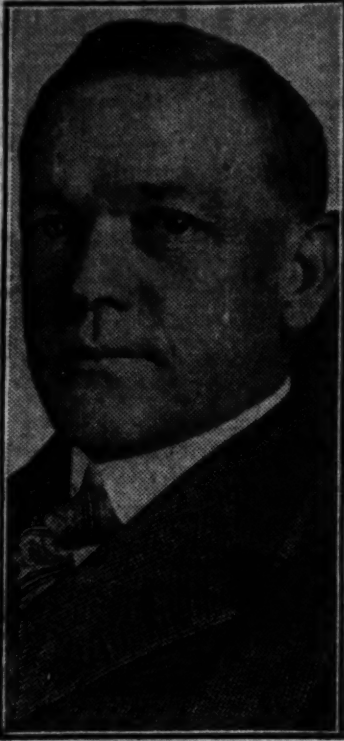

Secretary Work Seen Hoover. Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work and Walter Brown, assistant secretary of commerce, arrived here today and called at the Hoover home, 2240 S. street. These two Hoover leaders, together with James W. Good of Chicago, manager of the Hoover pre-convention campaign, will be among the first callers at the commerce department tomorrow. Numerous other leaders will be here this week.

The special Republican committee of twenty-six selected by the national committee to confer with the nominee will consult with Mr. Hoover on Thursday. Ralph Williams, Oregon national committeeman, will head this committee. In some quarters it is hinted he may be named national chairman.

Others on Committee. Among other members of the special committee are Roy O. West of Illinois, Charles D. Hines of New York, David McPherson of Kansas, Mrs. A. T. Hart of Kentucky, and W. W. Atterbury of Pennsylvania. This committee will have power to elect officers of the national committee.

Mr. Hoover has not divulged what he expects to contribute to the campaign in the way of radio talks and public addresses. It is not expected, however, that he will indulge in many

It is possible Mr. Hoover will confer with President Coolidge on his way to California.

Topeka, Kas., June 17.—(P)—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, and her husband, left Topeka this afternoon for Washington, where the senator was called by urgent business.

Paul Thieman, Newspaper Man, Dead at Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., June 17.—(P)—Paul Thieman, 50, veteran newspaper man and publicity director, died today. He was employed among other places here and in New York as reporter, dramatic critic, and editorial executive.

DEMOCRATS EYE VARE HOOVERISM AS AMMUNITION

Charge of Senate Seat Trade Predicted.

BY PARKE BROWN.

William S. Vare's part in the nomination of Herbert Hoover at Kansas City has been pounced on by the Democratic generals who believe they have in it possibly the most valuable campaign material which they say the Republicans provided against themselves in their national convention.

Reams of anti-Hoover Republican speeches and printed matter have been collected and will be used by Al Smith's backers, but the Vare material is considered so important that it may be worked into the Democratic convention program at Houston next week.

The charge is that Hoover's selection was effected by a deal between Vare, the Republican boss of Philadelphia, and Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, majority floor leader of the senate, permanent chairman of the Kansas City convention, and one of the chiefs of the Hoover pre-convention campaign.

Charge of Deal Predicted. The Democrats, it is said, now intend to go so far as to charge that the understanding between Moses and Vare covers important angles of the contest over Vare's seat in the senate which has been refused him for the last two years and was the big stake in the $2,000,000 Pennsylvania primary of 1924.

The Democrats are whispering now, but it is predicted that before long they will be shouting that the Republican nomination was traded for a seat in the senate, even though the latter has been smeared with charges of corruption.

The chronology upon which this charge will be based is that Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury and the "biggest boss in Pennsylvania," held Hoover's fate in his hands when he reached Kansas City last Monday afternoon. But he had been preceded into town by Vare. Mellon had been silent as to his preference, but Vare announced that the Vare delegates, about one-third of the state contingent, would be for Hoover. This was considered a threat to Secretary Mellon that his control of Pennsylvania would be endangered if he decided on any other course. Mellon conferred with National Chairman William M. Butler, who that night told some of his Massachusetts delegation Hoover was to be the man. The next morning Mellon did the same thing in the Pennsylvania caucus. And the swing of those two states settled it for Secretary Hoover.

The Democrats also are treasuring some of the things said about the nominee by his fellow Republicans before his selection became certain. They are recalling what Senator Charles Curtis said concerning the inadvisability of nominating a man who would put the party on the defensive. And they are cherishing such speeches as those of Col. Ralph D. Cole of Ohio, challenging Secretary Hoover's Americanism and Republicanism.

Hopes to Carry Illinois for Al.

Chicago and Illinois Democrats, who believe there is likelihood of carrying both the city and the state for Al Smith, place a great value on what Secretary of State Emmerson, Republican nominee for governor and spokesman for the Lowden-Curtis-Goff-Watson alliance, said about Hoover's candidacy endangering the loss of the corn belt to the Republican ticket and even throwing Illinois into the doubtful column.

"Emmerson has already declared Hoover can't carry Illinois," said Thomas F. Donovan of Joliet, chairman of the Democratic state committee. "If Hoover can't, there isn't the slightest possible chance that Emmerson will be elected governor."

National Chairman Butler passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Brule, Wis., to spend a few days with President Coolidge. He said it was to be purely a personal visit.

"The Republican ticket will win," was all that he would say about politics.

HOOVER FAMILY ATTENDS QUAKER MEETING HOUSE

Only 68 Present in Little Washington Church.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—Herbert C. Hoover, secretary of commerce and Republican presidential nominee, attended Sabbath services today with members of his immediate family in the Little Quaker meeting house at 1511 I street, a few blocks from the White House.

The simple services were already under way when Secretary and Mrs. Hoover, Herbert Hoover Jr. and wife, and Allen Hoover, 20, took their places in the pew which has been theirs for the last seven years. Their entrance caused no commotion.

SEN "Friend Hoover." In accordance with the Quaker custom the services began with the usual minutes of prayerful meditation, and then, as "moved by the spirit," members of the congregation were to speak briefly.

No mention was made by any of the speakers—Mr. Juliet C. Patten, Miss Alberta Wilson, and Prof. Robert Brown of the George school, a Quaker institution at Newton, Pa., to the presence of Mr. Hoover. He had been there on many "first days" in the past, and in the little company he was still and always will be "Friend Hoover."

Mr. Hoover listened attentively as Prof. Brown, who is also a civil engineer, recalled the lives of pioneers in religion, and mentioning modern developments, notably the radio and aviation, declared there is still work for the religious pioneer, as well as for the pioneer in material realms.

A count disclosed just sixty-eight men and women in the meeting house as the doors were closed at 11 o'clock. After the three speakers had concluded, the services ended with a prayer of thanksgiving and an announcement of the arrangements for the funeral of a member of the congregation.

Hold Impromptu Reception. As Secretary and Mrs. Hoover arose to leave they were surrounded by the friends who wished to offer their congratulations to the candidate. Albert Stabler, venerable head of the meeting house committee, acted as master

FINDS NEW YORK RUDELY GREETING CASH VISITORS

Petty Says Its Only Hand Is to Clutch.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, June 16.—[Special.]—Among other matters this city considers inconsequential is the treatment it accords its visitors. At this season more than 75,000 guests daily are dropping in on old Father Knickerbocker from trains, ships, automobiles and airplanes. When the drug stores begin putting their rumble panes in the front windows this horde will be boosted well past the 100,000 mark.

But civility and officially, New York, despite its money grubbing proclivities, receives these potential cash customers almost rudely and certainly with indifference.

From the moment the outsider puts his foot on to New York's crowded asphalt to that sometimes happy second when he lifts the same foot on to a gangplank or a westbound train step, he is on his own.

Needs Cash and Courage. Except his cash and his courage, he is fair prey for the racketeers, the night club gorillas, the taxi gypsies, and the shylocks who line the main stem elbow to elbow. No one puts out a hand except to clutch.

Strangely enough the visitors seem to like this reception. Recently a wel meaning commercial organization erected a huge electrical sign facing Times square's filthy way. It read: "Welcome to New York."

It lasted two weeks. There is now a silk hose clad girl waving her legs where the welcome sign used to wink its greeting.

Steel-Spiked Walkers Stay. New York's multitude of visitors had laughed it out. They were here to see legs and not the old home town spirit. In addition to the "pitfalls," the visitor has countless petty inconveniences to contend with. If he arrives on Sunday he cannot get a shave. No matter if his beard is steel-spiked he must mow his own, for it is against the law in this twenty-four hour town for a tonsorial artist to be abroad on the Sabbath.

He can buy a drink or a pint from the nearest bootblack, but he cannot get his provincial shoes shined. Getting shined with anything but moonshine is frowned upon by this law adding community.

If the visitor is not taxi-wise he probably will climb into a cab with tiny porthole windows primarily designed for sixty mile an hour petting and ride fifteen blocks to his hotel while all the time was less than a hundred yards away. He will not know the difference, for only a canary bird could see in or out of the windows of the cab.

More Guests than Rooms. Once in the hotel, if he goes to a reputable one, he will receive splendid treatment always providing he is accepted as a guest. Most of the hotels have more guests than rooms. But when he starts out to see the sights it will be in the same bird's eye view cab or one just like it, and about the only thing he will see will be the bottom of his billfold.

No one will take time to direct a visitor. The cops, who think the Bronx has something to do with the equator and that Brooklyn is a bridge, seldom know how to guide any one to a point more than three speak easies away. If one asks directions of a subway guard he will be answered in six of the seventeen dialects of Czechoslovakia if he receives any answer at all.

Dry Low Fills Chalk. When the visitor's new shoes and the burning pavement begin to agree as to temperature he usually starts squinting for a place to sit down. It is cheaper and easier to cool one's throat in New York than it is to cool one's dogs. It costs anywhere from 5 cents to $50 to sit down in this town, for the local bums long ago took out squatters' rights on all the park seats, and there has not been a vacant chair in a hotel lobby since the Volstead act.

Another apparently carefully planned annoyance is the open subway grates, whose blasts of fetid air send dresses and straw hats ballooning. Uninitiated visiting girls rush in here where Broadway angels fear to tread.

SANDINO ENVOY REPORTS YANKEE STILL PRISONER

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 17.—(AP)—Esteban Pavlovitch, a Yugoslav of Peru, who represents radical associations of Mexico, arrived here today saying he came from Sandino's headquarters in Nicaragua.

Pavlovitch said Sandino holds 31 prisoners, including George R. Marshall of New York, manager of the La Luz mine, which was raided late in April. The others, according to Pavlovitch, are 18 marines and two other American mine workers. He said all were in good health and were being well treated.

He said Sandino had decreed that after June 14 he would no longer respect foreign properties except those owned by Spaniards and Latin-Americans. Pavlovitch said Sandino expects to prove by this action that protection enjoyed heretofore by foreign interests was due to him, and not to the presence of United States marines in Nicaragua.

The informant said Sandino has 2,000 well armed men. He said Sandino won a battle with the marines on June 11 at Zapote, near Bacaya. According to his account, the marines left a number of dead on the field, including their commander.

Avert Tragedy at Old
Chicago Club.

Action by a watchman and a pedestrian at Michigan and Van Buren street
Chicago club building, about square, fell and carried the floor below it into the basement building, which was being rebuilt, has not been in use for weeks. One of the principal entrances was in floor levels, so that they would conform to the new building of the club on the west.

In the start of this week the old floor had been weakened.

The watchman, James Mice, 551 West 44th street, reported for duty at 4:30 p. m. Hearing cracking of timbers on the upper floors, he called in South Park Police Officer James Pine. On the third floor they saw indications that the collapse was imminent. They fled to the street and roped off the area of danger on both the boulevard and Van Buren street. The crash occurred ten minutes later.

The debris that hurtled down weighed several tons and clouds of dust were hurled into the kitchen of the club, while some bricks and slivers of wood fell into the street.
For fear that the walls might fall,
Fire Commissioner Goodrich ordered a guard be kept over the building and the police re-routed all traffic on Van Buren street and the west side of Michigan boulevard.

SHACKLES BRIDE TO SAVE HER AND WIN FURNITURE

Boston, Mass., June 17.—(Special.)— Howard Douglas Powrie, 35, Colby college junior, studying for the ministry, and his bride, the former Miss Betty Evelyn Frances Gunter, Colby student, today arrived in Boston firmly shackled, not only by marriage vows but by a 16 ounce pair of steel handcuffs.

When they intoned their "I do's" in Harmony Me., yesterday, they snapped the handcuffs together.
The shackles, the bridegroom explained, were worn due to the quaint Harmony custom of kidnapping the bride and seeing to it that she boards a train bound for a different destination than that of the bridegroom.
Mr. and Mrs. Powrie intend to wear the shackles until Saturday. Their best man bet them a new dining room set they would not dare to wear them after boarding their train.

HOSTESS PAYS ONCE, NOT AGAIN; JAIL FAKE AGENT

Joe Gleason of 18 South Loomis street recently quit his job as a chauffeur, got himself a shiny badge and went out posing as a prohibition agent.

Gleason on June 4, went to the home of Mrs. Edward Lubeck at 610
East 51st street. At the time Mrs.
Lubeck had guests and she was serving home brew. Gleason, she said, went through the house in approved dry agent fashion and when he found a couple of dozen bottles of brew besides that the hostess was serving, he told her he would have to take her to the federal building.

Mrs. Lubeck wept. Gleason, it is charged, suggested he might "fix things" for $100. Mrs. Lubeck said she had only $50, that she had saved for the rent.
"Well, I'll take the sixty now and come back for the other forty," Gleason is reported to have told her.
And yesterday when he went back,
Sergeant Alexander Mitchell was waiting for him. Last night Gleason himself took a trip to the federal building.

CRIME AND THE BAUMES LAWS

The refusal of the state supreme court to admit Eugene (Red) McLaughlin to bail pending review of his conviction is of prime importance in the present effort to make our administration of the criminal laws less ineffectual. One of the most costly and notorious weaknesses of this administration is the abuse of the right to bail. It has been a wide open exit through which ruled repeatedly escape. This Tribune is as jealous as any citizen can be of the civil rights of the free man, but the right of bail was never intended to be so applied as to be a common means of defeating justice. In the case of McLaughlin the prisoner is of notorious life and the supreme court is entirely justified in taking judicial cognizance of the fact that there is for such men a highly organized machinery of law evasion which, if he is permitted to be at large under excuse of bail, will be set in motion in his behalf. It offends common sense that in such instances malefactors should be given the chance to abuse the guaranty of bail. Meanwhile it is hoped the next legislature will not fail to consider and enact the bills introduced at the last session by Senator Roy Woods, measures based upon the recommendations of the Chicago crime commission and somewhat similar to the New York Baumes laws.

New York has been observing with satisfaction a sharp decrease in crime. The police commissioner of New York City ascribes it to the vigorous enforcement of the Baumes laws. These new features of the criminal code were devised by the New York crime commission, which investigated conditions and formulated a remedy. Its most conspicuous provisions are directed at the cumulative punishment of the habitual criminal. For example, as a person who has been convicted of felonies or attempts to commit felonies three times shall upon conviction of a fourth felony be sentenced to the state prison for life.

Michigan has now a similar statute brought into recent prominence by the sentencing of a man to life imprisonment for possession of a half pint of gin. This case indicates not that the habitual criminal provision of such laws is inadvisable but that it should be explicitly limited to crimes in which it should be made inapplicable to offenses merely statutory made. Senator Woods of Chicago introduced at the latest regular session of our legislature a bill for cumulative penalties and for other amendments of our code recommended by the Chicago crime commission. It is pending and we trust will have favorable action in the next session, but it should be amended so as not to invite the travesty of justice committed in Michigan. An important provision of the New York law makes the possession or use of deadly weapons by criminals much more expensive. Five to ten years are added to first offenses when a weapon is carried, ten to fifteen to a second offense, fifteen to twenty-five for a third offense, and twenty-five to life for a fourth.

The powers of the parole board are restricted and the criminal sentenced under these new laws for a life term cannot be paroled at all. All officials concerned, police, prosecutors, etc., are directed to keep the courts informed of previous records of defendant. Newly discovered records may be used to increase sentences "hitherto given." It is chiefly the cumulative penalties of the Baumes laws which are credited with driving criminals out of New York, but they included other aids in the war upon crime. One is the creation of a state central bureau of identification in the office of the superintendent of prisons. Criminal records have not been carefully kept and a central bureau scientifically managed would aid the police in identifying offenders. The New York bureau is said to be very complete and efficient.

With the problem of bail, much discussed in Chicago, the law deals, it seems to us, effectively. If upon examination of records or other evidence it appears a person charged with certain offenses has been convicted before, he may not be admitted to bail. No discretion is left to the court. The offenses are those associated with violence and professional crime, such as carrying weapons, burglary, tools, burglary, etc. Another provision directs the state's attorney to enforce forfeiture of bail within sixty days after adjournment of the court which declared the forfeiture. Another provision compels a defendant to state at the opening of his trial what he expects to prove. Hitherto this was required only of the prosecution and gave undue advantage to the criminal. An innocent defendant is not likely to be injured by the statement of his defense, while a guilty one would find it more difficult to fix up a defense based on the statement of the prosecution.

Our criminal practice has gone too far in its attempt to surround innocence with safeguards. That is a proper tendency and our laws should follow it, but not to the extremes we have permitted. Intended safeguards have been exploited by the professional criminal and his expert allies and weakened seriously the defenses of society against crime.

Our next legislature will have the benefit of the experiment in New York and the ideas of our own experts and should not fail to consider and act upon much needed measures to make crime detection and punishment more efficient in Illinois.

CHURCH AND STATE, HERE AND IN ENGLAND

The revised prayer book of the Church of England has gone on the rocks in parliament again. The House of commons rejected it by a majority of 46. The Laborites who refrained from voting in the rejection last December when nonconformists and nonbelievers dictated what should be the form of prayer in the Anglican church joined with the opposition this time and furnished the necessary votes.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin summed up the arguments for the new prayer book. He warned of the danger of disestablishment and the separation of the church from the state. Winston Churchill repeated the warning, saying that if parliament violently asserted the right of supervision and religious veto it would render these rights obsolete forever. But the prayer book was defeated and the archbishop of Canterbury, the primate, went from the galleries almost overcome by the emotions with which he had sat through the discussions.

Thus the state church of England, the established religion, finds that its decisions as to forms of worship and ritual are not within its own conscience and belief, but are regulated for it by the state, meaning thereby the faction in parliament which can produce a majority. In this case the majority came from people not in the Anglican communion. They were not to be affected by the forms of worship desired, but they had their reasons for not liking them and they made their decision to govern the church.

In older days the established church influenced the state to make discriminations against people who did not worship in its communion and according to its forms. These people encountered disabilities sometimes only in their own religious observances, but sometimes also in their civil standing. Upon such a scheme of preferences the established church justified to itself the joining of church and state. For freedom in religion the United States was organized upon the separation of church and state.

In the Republican convention in Kansas City there was evidence of the organized work of American churches in political action. Even if the delegates had been willing or desirous to consider American constitutional questions seriously and intelligently they would have deferred their purpose and yielded the point to placate the religious influence organized in and for political action effecting the political parties in their conventions and government in administration and legislation.

In the United States, where the separation of church and state was decreed, we see the advance of religious political endeavor creating a less and less shadowy conjunction of state and church. Here politics and government are yielding.

In England we see what has happened to the church when it has remained in this unnatural union of religious conscience and political opinion. The church is unable to control matters of conscience and belief, of ritual and form of prayer, because antagonistic elements in politics have the power to control it.

Nothing could be more outrageous to religious freedom, but it is the natural consequence of such a union. It follows that if at times the organized church can control politics, politics at another time may assert the right to control religion. These two parts of life by their innermost nature are opposed and not to be reconciled.

WHAT CAN BE DONE IN '35?

The suggestion made here recently that the greatest of the opera companies, the greatest of the choral societies, the greatest of the theatrical and ballet companies of the world be on hand in Chicago for the centennial celebration in 1933 has been well received on the whole. But there have been some doubters. They have said that the idea, though a good one, is too ambitious to be realized.

Possibly. But we observe that with no occasion to attract them and with no unusual number of visitors to draw upon, Paris this spring has had the Vienna State opera, including its stars, its orchestra, its choruses and even its mechanics. At the same time Paris has had Mangelberg with his Amsterdam orchestra and Furtwangler with the Berlin Philharmonic. Five Mozart operas were presented by the Societe Universelle du Theatre, which has recruited French, German, Italian and Czech artists for the enterprise, while Sig. Alfredo de Sanctis, who is described as a leading figure of the Italian stage, has been appearing at the Odon.

A little persuasion will be needed to bring these attractions and many others like them to Chicago in 1933, but the task is not an impossible one, particularly if some means of guaranteeing expenses is devised.

Editorial of the Day

BE HONEST WITH THE FARMERS.
(Greensboro, N. C., Record.)

While Democrats are contemplating with considerable satisfaction the discontent which is said to prevail in the middle western states because of the veto by Mr. Coolidge of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, they might well be studying the relation of this discontent to a Democratic victory.

If the Democrats enter the campaign with the determination to capitalize the dissatisfaction of the Republican voters of the agricultural section of the nation they will have to make more or less definite promises to the farmers. In our opinion, veto of the McNary-Haugen bill was a wise step on the part of the President, and if the Democratic party commits itself to support of this or a similar measure it will make a fatal mistake. It will be a bid for votes in which the best interests of the country will be disregarded in an attempt to gain a victory. That will be an indefensible policy and in time will react to the discredit of the Democratic party.

The Democratic party probably will acquire thousands of votes because of the veto. Whether these will be sufficient to swing normally Republican states into the Democratic column is a question which no one at this time can answer. The party certainly should not seek to gain these votes by making promises which either are impossible of fulfillment or may be kept only by embarking upon a venture which is unsound in principle and entirely foreign to Democratic doctrine.

If the voters of the middle west flock to the Democratic standard because they are dissatisfied with the Republican rule, well and good. That will not hurt the party to support of measures which are unbecomingly and may in the long run do the farmer more harm than good—and certainly will injure other citizens even if the farmers, through some miracle, are permanently benefited.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual cases.

ADVICE ON TICKS

WHEN in a tick infested country one should look himself over for insects every night. It is not safe to postpone this ceremony for a week. The reason is that tick bites may be fatal. To be fatal, however, the tick must keep its head buried in the skin of its host for five days or longer. If the insect stays attached for any period up to five days the only result is a painful, itching wound. If, however, the insect is overlooked and remains imbedded for longer than five days the result is a form of paralysis from which death is very likely to result.

The reference, as to the bites of non-infectious, ordinary brown ticks or wood ticks. Rocky Mountain spotted fever, due to the bite of infected ticks, is another tick disease. This paralysis is the result of poison carried in the saliva of the tick. In other words, the ordinary tick is a poisonous insect capable of causing paralysis and death if given five days or longer to burrow its head into the skin of its host.

Cases of paralysis and death due to tick bites have been known of for several years. We were a little slow in getting the matter straightened out for several reasons. One was that the earlier reports came from the northwest, and there was some tendency to confuse tick paralysis with Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

In the reports of the earlier cases it was thought that pulling the tick off and leaving the head imbedded in the skin was the cause of the trouble. The fact was that the tick was pulled in two and the head was left imbedded. It had been biting for more than five days. Its head, being deep in, was like a wedge and could not be pulled out. The tick was left in the skin until the body had been removed. The tick was then pulled out, and the head was left in the skin. The tick was then pulled out, and the head was left in the skin.

It was then that the tick was pulled out, and the head was left in the skin. The tick was then pulled out, and the head was left in the skin. The tick was then pulled out, and the head was left in the skin.

MELTING ARCTIC WEATHER BALKS MOBILE'S RESCUE

Also Adds to Perils of Polar Castaways.

1928: By the Associated Press.
SPITSBERGEN, June 17.—The summer weather is operating to delay relief measures for Gen. Nobile and his marooned party in the polar circle. The ice in the region of Foul Bay is melting fast under the heat, moreover, is causing heavy fogs. These are preventing the Norwegian aviators from making any progress. Reports from the Braganza, the ship which is carrying the Norwegian aviators, are that the north coast of the archipelago is very difficult to approach.

Italian Plane Forced Back.
The Italian seaplane, Savoia-65, which Maj. Maddalena is piloting, was turned back today because it had no fuel.

It is understood that the Savoia-65 had been headed for Vadsoe, Norway.

Real reliance has been placed upon the plane and also upon the French seaplane which left Bergen, Norway, under the leadership of Roald Amundsen.

It is hoped that when these planes get into the north they can establish actual physical touch with the Nobile party, if not able to effect immediate rescue. They are to be accompanied shortly by a large American plane which is coming under the pilotage of Maj. Penzo, and a French flying boat, now en route.

All these machines have large cargo capacity as well as passenger room. They will be depended upon especially to scout for the seven missing members of the Italian crew and for the three men who are supposed to be waiting their way across the ice.

Gen. Nobile and the Braganza, the ship which has been carrying the Italian survivors since Thursday evening. Both on Friday and Saturday nights the Citta di Milano sent out its usual reports and messages to the refugees but it received no replies. Gen. Nobile, however, is expected to be hoisting a red flag as a signal of distress.

Gen. Nobile has been rescued. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ROME, June 17.—Admiral Siranni, commander of the Italian fleet, today said the reports sent out from Oslo that the party of three men sent by Gen. Nobile to Cape North, had found the whaling boat Hobbs and was still there, were entirely unfounded.

Admiral Siranni said that no such reports had been received from the Citta di Milano, mother ship of the expedition.

Regarding the wireless communication between Gen. Nobile and the San Teodoro in Rome, and how the government has handled communications, Admiral Siranni said that every dispatch from Gen. Nobile has been communicated immediately to the public, except two which were held up for a few hours.

One dispatch was held up because it mentioned the Nobile party, and the other about the names of the wounded. The latter report was held up until the families of the wounded were notified.

Concerning the Italian crash, Commander Siranni said that the crash of the Savoia-65 was not a tragedy, but a serious accident.

Those who have children at the Ogden school are full of the danger.

LACE GIVES CLEW TO IDENTITY OF GIRL LAKE VICTIM

A bit of old lace, painstakingly fingered by hand, gave police a slim clew yesterday to the identity of a young woman of about 24 whose body was taken from the lake near 56th street Saturday. Several persons viewed the body at Roberts' undertaking parlors, 1411 East 60th street, during the day, but all shook their heads and turned away.

The girl wore a black dress, flesh colored stockings, and a blue serge suit. She was 5 feet 3 inches in height, weighed about 125 pounds, and her hair and eyes were dark. No marks of violence were visible.

The body of a man about 35 years old, with a heavy strap belted around the waist, was recovered from the lake at Randolph street yesterday by coast guards.

Police also were attempting to establish the identity of a man, of about 40 years old, whose body was taken from the Chicago river at the Michigan avenue bridge.

Commander Sanonetti admitted the navy department had slight hopes that the party of seven carried away in the balloon would be found alive. Their entire chance of safety depended on whether they had sufficient technical knowledge on how to release the gas from the envelope so it would descend slowly.

He estimated that the envelope, after the initial crash, probably plunged back into the air in a non-horizontal position, and remained that way.

INDICTED POLLS TERRORISTS TO BE NAMED TODAY

True Bills Are Due Before Judge William Brothers.

First grist from the mill of justice set agoing when the special grand jury took up the investigation of political violence and vote frauds will issue today when indictments naming more than a dozen terrorists on charges of kidnaping, robbery, and assault to murder are expected to be returned. The true bills will be presented before Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Criminal court.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission and chief prosecutor before the special grand jury, declined yesterday to discuss the indictments, but it is known that the witnesses who have been before the grand jury were victims of kidnapings and sluggings in the 20th and 27th wards, which are overlorded by Morris Eller and Homer K. Galpin.

Vote Frauds Probed Next.
Mr. Loesch said the jury during the coming week would listen to witnesses who will describe how gangsters were carried about from one polling place to another on primary day, in each precinct the entire group would be led into the polling place to vote. In this manner many voted dozens of times, it is charged.

Plans for making short work of the business of completing the $150,000 public fund for prosecution of the inquiry will be made at two conferences today. In one special committees of the Chicago Bar association and the Chicago Association of Commerce, headed by Carl R. Latham and James B. Forgan Jr., will meet, and later Mr. Forgan's committee will confer with all the chairmen of the Association of Commerce's trade divisions.

Quotas Will Be Fixed.
At this meeting quotas will be fixed for all the city industries, according to Mr. Forgan's plan.

Chicago's crime situation will be aired at a special meeting arranged by the Traffic club of Chicago at the

in the world

—in New York!

in New York, most of this prosperity is made and shared by the readers of a single newspaper!

WITH ten million people in an area less than 6,000 square miles, New York is the largest and richest urban market in the world. Six million people in the city proper; seven millions within thirty minutes of City Hall; ten millions within the fifty mile commuting zone... one-twelfth (1/12) of the population of these United States—most compact, most prosperous and richest twelfth—in less than one five hundredth (1/500) of the national area.

Today, the advertiser can reach most of this market... in a single medium!

THE News is that medium. Less than nine years old, it has changed marketing methods as well as newspaper history in New York. For the first time one newspaper has enough circulation to really cover the New York market. For the first time, an advertiser may reach most of the market with one newspaper—a newspaper with more than 1,230,000 circulation Daily, more than 1,470,000 Sunday. The largest newspaper circulation in America!

This circulation was built on demand. Year after year more than 100,000 new buyers have adopted The News, started reading it and never stopped. Small in size, with small pages, profusely illustrated with the best newspaper pictures in the world, easy to handle, to carry, to read—The News has become New York's favorite newspaper, New York's strongest advertising medium!

In point of size, The News is the only adequate medium in New York, big enough to cover the market. The second daily paper has little more than half of the News circulation; and three other papers must be used to equal it. The second Sunday paper falls short by 350,000 copies!

With almost a million copies daily in New York City proper, The News is concentrated enough to be effective. In every locality, in every neighborhood, there are enough News readers to make News advertising an immediate, active, realizable force. It embraces 60% of all the families in New York City!

The News circulation is not only concentrated, but comprehensive. It permeates the pale of Park Avenue and the high income groups, runs thick in the middle classes and thins out in the literally poor. There are no gaps in its coverage, in its influence.

SELL News readers, and you sell New York. They constitute a four billion dollar market, the largest local market accessible through a single newspaper. As a large group, they are the wealthiest people in the world, with an almost inestimable, inexhaustible capacity for sales and consumption. Within an incredibly few years they have made The News a great advertising medium—first in New York for furniture, for musical instruments, for radio sets—both in lineage and money. They have made new high record days for department stores, broken all records in response on keyed national copy. They made the nine million dollars spent by advertisers last year in this eight year old paper a tremendously profitable investment. You need their interest, their patronage and support if you do business in New York—or hope to do more business here.

Besides bringing your advertising message to this tremendous audience, The News adds to the efficiency of that message. Every advertisement is more visible on the small page. Every advertisement has a better chance to be seen and to be read through in the small, thoroughly readable paper. The News cuts down your advertising competition, steps up your advertising effectiveness.

Lastly, it costs less—makes the advertising dollar go farther. If you do business in New York—or intend to—you need The News. Investigate!

NEW YORK... Four million nickels dropping into subway turnstiles every twenty-four hours... A quarter-million people per day swarming through a railroad station, wearing out within three years stair treads of immemorial marble... Twenty-six 4,000,000 share days on the Stock Exchange in the first five months of this year... One hundred and fifty thousand new homes built within four years... A new store on Fifth Avenue does a seventeen million dollar volume in its second year, twenty-two millions in its third year... Sixty-five thousand marriages and one hundred and twenty-five thousand births per year... A million and a half square feet of office space absorbed annually in the Grand Central zone... $2,800,000,000 in deposits in New York City savings banks... More Buicks registered than Chevrolets... Over a billion dollars a day bank clearings... Almost a million children in day schools, growing up to be customers... Studebaker salesman sells two cars every day... Eighteen thousand stores selling groceries and 3900 drug stores supplying Listerine, lipsticks and Lucky Strikes... New York represents the apex of our national prosperity. And

OLD MONARCHIST PROVES GUARDIAN OF NEW REPUBLIC

Germany's War Hero Its Knight of Peace.

BY LARRY RUE.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, June 17.—It is one of the ironies of history that what was universally hailed as a great victory for monarchism in reality sounded its death knell in Germany, the election of the war hero, Gen. von Hindenburg, as president of the republic.

Although a Socialist, President Ebert was the first president under the republic. His exercise of this office was so unobtrusive that he gave no particular character to the position.

It is President von Hindenburg rather than Ebert, who will be given the revered title of "the father of his country."

For more than half a century he was regarded as one of the greatest symbols of monarchy. Yet in exercising his power as president Herr von Hindenburg has not only added a new importance to this post, but has breathed new life into the republican cause. No one man has done more to defeat the hopes of monarchic revival in Germany.

"True to a Trust."

Although Herr von Hindenburg had officially retired from public life, he was induced by the Nationalists—that is monarchists—to run for president. He was elected with an eight per cent majority over Marx, but he failed to poll a majority of all votes cast.

He took the oath of loyalty to the republican constitution. Throughout he has proved himself, to the consternation of many of his friends and to the delight of his former enemies, true to a trust which was at first regarded as a mockery.

Herr von Hindenburg has established numerous precedents which will mark paths the future occupants of this office will take, in the same way that Washington and Jefferson established precedents which determine the conduct of occupants of the White House to this day.

Too! Over Reins.

The Weimar constitution provides that the chancellor shall determine the guiding lines of policy, subject to the approval of parliament. Herr von Hindenburg himself, however, rather than his chancellor, created the coalition in which the Nationalists were represented. He issued a letter favoring a government of this kind with the exclusion of Socialists, the strongest individual party in parliament. No modern constitutional king would have dared to interfere to this extent in party alignment. He was successful in forming the Marx cabinet of bourgeois coalition.

On the other hand, he used his authority to bring the German nationalists into a more conciliatory attitude toward France and the peace treaties. Obviously against the wishes of the government, Herr von Hindenburg ordered the passage of the budget, war claims, penal code, and other legislation before consideration of the school bill, which every one knew would dissolve parliament.

Has Power Enough.

Herr von Hindenburg also intervened in the flag controversy, urging loyalty to the black-white-red flag of the republic, at the same time soothing the feelings of outraged monarchists by entreating respect for the colors of the old German flag.

During the last election Herr von Hindenburg, although he is sometimes charged with stretching his rights under the constitution, publicly disavowed the attempt of the Nationalists to use his name in their campaign to have the authority of the president increased. It was urged that owing to the diversified programs of the numerous parties composing the Reichstag, that the president of Germany, as that of the United States, should be permitted to appoint his own cabinet ministers regardless of the legislature. Their argument was that owing to the composition of the parliament, political stability is only possible by creating a strong executive.

Complaisance Are Silenced.

The present prestige of Herr von Hindenburg throughout the country can be appreciated when it is recalled that even the Social Democrats have ceased to complain of his stretching of presidential authority. All observers agree that he has the confidence of the country. Even his enemies agree that whenever he has interfered in parliamentary politics, he has done so in the interest of patriotism.

There seems little possibility of any immediate revision of the constitution.

FRANKLIN AIRMAN

Los Angeles to New York to Los Angeles

Total mileage: 6692. Total elapsed time: 157 hrs. 23 min.

(All timing checked by Western Union Officials)

Once again Franklin's advanced construction principles have won a decisive victory!

In sixty-six hundred miles of continuous driving—under all conditions of road and weather—a stock Airmen Sedan driven by Cannon Ball Baker, famous road driver, achieved the record which, above all others, carries outstanding prestige and recognized importance.

The Airmen's ability to cover the maximum miles per day with the minimum of fatigue to the driver counted heavily for success. Mile after mile, hour after hour, Franklin maintained a higher average rate of speed—registered many extra miles per day—which is the true test of speed. Cannon Ball Baker drove the Airmen continuously from Los Angeles to New York and back to Los Angeles with no stop except for fuel. The Airmen is the only motor car designed for sustained high speed with comfort.

Scientific light weight provided supreme driving ease. Franklin's ability to hold the road—and the positive action of synchronized 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—established a new conception of high average speed with safety.

Aviation has advanced the air-cooled motor as the standard of engine performance. In all the recent record-breaking flights the air-cooled motor was unanimously chosen for its reliability and powers of endurance.

The Airmen's record-breaking, coast-to-coast run makes the air-cooled motor supreme on the highway. Its thorough dependability and efficiency were positive factors for safety—on the stiffest mountain grades the air-cooled motor delivered an abundance of power without a suggestion of overheating.

You are urged to have a demonstration this week—in America's fastest road car.

This remarkable round-trip coast-to-coast record beats the previous record by 10 hrs. and 36 min.

FIND RED REVOLT PLOT AS GREEK STRIKES SPREADS

Railroad Men Join; Sailors Mutiny.

[Chicago Times Press Service.]
ATHENS, June 17.—A general strike of railroads and public utilities throughout Greece has been called as a result of government action at Xanthi in suppressing strikers in that city in which one was killed, and seven wounded.

Street fighting is reported from Drama, where thirty are dead, and more than a hundred wounded. In Kavala and other parts of the country there have been clashes between strikers and troops.

Sailors in Mutiny.
The government is declared to have uncovered a conspiracy for a communist revolution. It is regarded as a plot that the crews on three ships in port have refused to obey the orders of their commanders against the strikers.

Persons have been barricaded by the police in preparation for trouble if the communists attempt to force the issue with the police, and the government has taken extraordinary precautions throughout the country to defeat the communists.

Railroad communication between Athens and Salonika was cut off today. Twelve cases of the plague have been reported from Corfu.

The strike started with a walkout of tobacco workers to whose ranks the Reds succeeded in bringing other trades.

Watching Pangalos.
BRUSSELS, June 17.—The strike situation in Greece has become extremely serious since the first squadron of the Greek fleet, stationed at Mytilene, has joined the cause of the tobacco strikers, it is said.

A strict watch is being kept on Gen. Theodoros Pangalos, former dictator, it being feared that strikers may try to release him.

(Gen. Pangalos has been in prison since he was ousted from power in August, 1926. He is charged with treason.)

Only scant information has come direct from Greece in respect to the strike of tobacco workers and its possible political consequences.

A glimpse of the background was afforded late in March when the Greek government at Athens blamed communists for three disastrous tobacco fires. It asserted that the Reds were trying to terrify the tobacco workers into joining them by forcing unemployment through the destruction of factories.

Troops, Strikers Clash.
On June 13 and again the next day there were clashes between strikers and troops at Kavala, headquarters of the American Tobacco company. Shots were exchanged and one man was killed and a score or more wounded.

The strike is ostensibly for higher wages, but almost every dispatch on the subject direct from Greece has mentioned the government as blaming the communists for the outbreaks.

In April a report via Paris said that Gen. Kondylis, who in August of 1926 overthrew Theodoros Pangalos as dictator, was fomenting a revolution and that martial law had been declared in Athens.

FIRST VICTORS IN 2D SONG TITLE GAME ANNOUNCED

Tribune Awards Fourth Prize to Chicagoan.

From the thousands of answers sent to THE TRIBUNE'S "Second Set of Song Titles" contest, 617 winners have been selected and the first list of prize winners is published today. Owing to space limitations the publication of those who will receive pay for their efforts is to be made in serial form. Those named today will get a total of $610; other names will be printed daily until the list is completed.

It was a difficult task to decide who should have the awards. From the day the last cartoon of the series of forty representing popular songs was printed the entries began to pile up. A big force of clerks worked as hard in sorting and checking until all those entries with any chance whatever of being in the money were sorted.

Next, several thousand of the best sets were turned over to the judges. They continued the elimination painstakingly until the 617 winners had been chosen.

Leading the list today is the name of N. Paul Quirk of 1716 Farwell avenue who was given one of the $25 fourth prizes. Sixteen winners of $10 prizes and 85 winners of $5 prizes are listed below:

Albany, N. Y., June 17.—[Special.]—Before an assemblage of Klansmen and other organizations, many of them in full panoply of their orders, United States Senator J. Thomas Hefflin of Alabama, today denounced Gov. Al Smith and his candidacy for the presidency as a menace to American institutions.

The meeting took place in a natural amphitheater near Hurstville, outside of Albany, and attracted a throng of close to 8,000, including delegations from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, as well as from numerous upstate counties of New York state.

BREMEN CROWDED FOR WELCOME TO OCEAN FLYERS

German-Irish Aces Will Reach Port Today.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BREMEN, Germany, June 17.—Never in her thousand years' history has Bremen seen as many guests, cars, airplanes, and ships flock to her gates as today when tens of thousands poured in to be present tomorrow when Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron Ehrenreich Guntner von Huenfeld, and Maj. James Fitzmaurice land on German soil after their pioneer flight across the Atlantic to America.
First among the guests of honor was Capt. Koehl's father and mother, who is frail and little, just all shining eyes. He is a former military man, energetic, lively, with a very complexion, white hair, a white mustache, and a multitude of decorations on his breast.
Folker Proud but Stern.
Don't think for a second this father is overcome with pride. He wants to be a stern father and while every body praises his son to the skies he knows himself.
"I am not a blind, dotting father who thinks his boy is more wonderful than any other and who can remember how almost in the cradle the child showed promise of great achievement. Hermann was just an ordinary, healthy, average German boy, and you see he didn't need more than that to succeed," he said.

"Of course, I am proud of his achievement, but mostly because he has shown the world what German grit can do. I am more touched than I can say by the marvelous reception given to my son and his comrades in America—that is what I call real pacifism."
Plan Plane for Great Heights.
While the men who flew Prof. Hugo Junkers' Bremen to America are returning to Europe, Junkers' works announce a new great project. They are building an all metal, four motor monoplane to fly through the stratosphere at the height of fifteen to twenty kilometers (49,216 feet to 65,620 feet), where airplanes can reach a speed of three hundred miles an hour or more. They are perfecting the machine in collaboration with the German Association of Science and Research and the aviation research office.

The new airplane will be equipped with air compressors automatically improving the thin air in the higher regions, and will have a specially built cabin for observing pilots. Experts believe the airplane will be able to fly from Berlin to New York in twelve hours. It will be ready for trial flights early in the fall.

SYDNEY, Australia, June 17.—(AP)—The air force cross has been awarded by King George to Capt. Kingsford-Smith and Lieut. Uim for their successful trans-Pacific flight.

ASSEMBLY MEETS TODAY; SEEK TO PASS TAX BILL
An effort to tie its own record of passing a bill in the legally fixed minimum of five days will be begun this afternoon by the Illinois general assembly when it meets in its third session this year.
Bare quorums of both houses are expected in Springfield by 5 o'clock and at that hour Representative

Thomas O'Grady of Chicago and Senator Richard J. Barr will introduce identical copies of the measure intended to authorize the state tax commission to order a reassessment of property in any county at any time.
In each chamber the bill, it is expected, will be advanced to second reading without reference to committee. Unless something unexpected develops each house should pass its own bill on Wednesday. Final passage of one or the other can be completed by Friday, the bill having had the legal requirement of consideration for three days in each house.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

OPIUM DEFRAYS THIRD OF MALAYA COLONY EXPENSE

British Monopoly Under Fire of League.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BATAVIA, Java, June 17.—Much has been said by the opium committee of the league of nations regarding the huge increase in opium traffic and consumption in British Malaya. This committee accuses the British colonial government of deliberately encouraging the use of opium there.

Opium consumption in this country has tremendously increased since 1919, when the British colonial government in Malaya took over the retailing of opium to the Chinese and native population, creating a government monopoly.

Direct Retail Shops.

Retail shops and smoking parlors were erected throughout the country. They are owned, controlled, and operated by the British colonial government, and the business of retailing opium in Malaya is as much a part of the government's affairs as is operating the postoffice.

The government now takes 30 per cent of its total revenue from the opium traffic. It is, therefore, a very vital trade. The opium retail parlors established throughout the country since 1919 by the government, giving complete and easy distribution of opium, have been an important factor in encouraging consumption, and it is this that the opium committee of the league of nations strongly protests.

Denies Boosting Trade.

The local government, in reply to the league's protest, says that it is not intentionally encouraging the consumption of opium. The retail establishments have been erected and are operated by the government for the purpose of obtaining complete control of the traffic. It is said that no effort has been made to increase consumption, and as a proof of this, the high price of opium is pointed to.

A good smoke may be obtained in the government parlors for $12 per ton, whereas in China the standard price is about $1 per ton. The difference in price goes to make the large revenue now supporting approximately one-third of the British colonial government of Malaya.

BANKER TO ADDRESS WOMEN.

William S. Miller, vice president of the Northern Trust company, will address the Association of Chicago Bank Women at their regular monthly dinner at the Union League club at 6:30 p. m. Thursday.

ORGAN WITH TONE HEARD BY 1,000,000 PLANNED FOR FAIR

Construction of a great all metal organ with a total capacity so vast that it can be heard by several million has been proposed by Charles Walter of the Western Electric company for the world's fair in 1933. Music from this organ could be heard directly through the air by a million people, he explained.

Two musical organizations have offered their services for the fair. The famous Mormon choir of Ogden, Utah, officially known as the Ogden Tabernacle choir, is one of them. This group, numbering 175, and conducted by Lester Hinchcliffe, is known for its rendition of the sacred classics with symphonic accompaniment. The other is the Chicago Mendelssohn club, composed of 75 business and professional men. The offers have been referred to the musical program committee of the fair.

ARREST 37 IN VIOLENCE

PREDICAMENTS . . . Tribune Want Ad Rings the Bell

Tribune Want Ad ends "Predicament" by selling house.

THE FEENEYS had an option on a larger house. But had to sell their old one before they could take it up. Two weeks of effort failed to sell their home and the option was rapidly expiring. What to do? A six line want ad in The Tribune kept their phone ringing all day, and the house was sold at a satisfactory price the day after the ad appeared.

Almost any kind of "Predicament" can be solved by the use of The Tribune Want Ad Section. For a Tribune Want Ad can sell or buy, hire employees, or find a good position. Any time you have a problem requiring a quick solution, just phone—

Some Slants on New Methods of Child Education

What should school mean to children?

"There must be something wrong with your school," he said, half laughing, though he meant it. "Because the children like it so much. I think you have to hate school to learn anything. I used to—and I learned a lot."

The speaker was a writer and a man of the times. He was addressing his remarks to a woman who is running a small progressive school which he knows the children enjoy. He quite honestly felt that school, to be good for a child, must make him feel its arduousness.

As I listened, I seemed to hear echoes of the many remarks of disapproval I have heard from many people in regard to the advanced or progressive schools of today. Most people evidently do not realize the ideal that animates the educators who are founding these schools that children love.

There is quite a general idea that the modern school plans to give children a loose freedom and a softening pleasant ambience through what they can get of the three R's with a smattering of handwriting. It is, on the contrary, a wholesome and vital and well thought out movement—this one of progressive education.

To quote some of its exponents: "It is an alliance between the sciences and idealism; the expression of a new attitude toward childhood and youth."

"Progressive education means learning the lessons of life naturally under friendly guidance in an environment of freedom suited to the age of the child. Young people are best developed under conditions and leadership which encourage them to think for themselves, to direct themselves, to express themselves, to make for themselves."

"It is an appreciation of the nature of young people and of the conditions under which they grow most richly and most beautifully. Freedom, interest, sympathy, trust, health—these are the essentials."

Husband Who's "High Hatted" by Wife Asks Help

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Help, help is hereby solicited from husbands in the interests of a poor suffering brother. If you know what to do with a nagging, raddling, unreasonable wife please send along your formula. I'm frank to say I don't know what you can do with her, since the law and the alimony market are against a man who would resort to the kind of punishment I'd recommend to the particular kind of wife outlined below.

"A married," writes A. P. "My wife and I are blessed with three children, boy 15, two girls, 11 and 6."

"My wife and I have quarrels continually, as she goes out every evening, sometimes when I'm home and most of the time leaving the children by themselves. During our arguments she gives me to understand I'm not good enough to meet her friends. In other words, she 'high hats' me whenever I ask her to come along with me to visit friends or go to the theater with me. She absolutely refuses."

"We also have continual arguments about money matters. She knows how much I earn. She is constantly making demands on me for extra personal needs, and clothes that I simply cannot afford, although I wouldn't deny her a thing within reason. I am in debt now, paying $40 a month on money borrowed from a loan society and another loan on which I have to pay $15 a month. The money went to satisfy her demands for clothes. I haven't bought myself a suit of clothes in four years, always making the sacrifice to satisfy her demands."

"I feel like leaving her, but when I think of the children I haven't the heart. What is your opinion?"

My opinion is that the wife is simply no good, either as a mother, as a wife, or as a woman. Not that I expect women to be home bodies in the strict sense of the word, if they're not so constituted. Nor do I expect a taste of clothes to be submerged entirely. But so long as a woman lives off a man she owes him more than the man in this case is getting. If she can't live within his income, if he is "beneath her socially" and if the manner in which her children occupy their evening hours are of no interest to her, she's the one that ought to be shoved out into the cold world to wrestle for her extravagance.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

"Dear Miss Blake: I'll soon be 16. I was asked by girls to join their club, meeting one night a week. My mother says I'm too young. Please advise. I'm inclined to agree with your mother this time. It isn't safe for a young girl to be out at night."

"I would like to know if you could possibly secure for me a clown suit and a riding habit, boots included."

Our school is having a circus before graduation and I cannot afford to buy the costumes I must have to take part in it. I wear size 38, and the boots should be 6 1/2. S. W."

Went to donate your clown suit, reminiscent of parties and masquerades, perhaps, to help make the school parade a success?

SPRINTERS HOLD TURF SPOTLIGHT HERE THIS WEEK

Anita Peabody May Race at Arlington Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

While the 2 year old and the 3 year old championships have been fairly well established during the first two weeks of the Chicago racing season at Arlington Park, there are two other titles to be won or lost before the meeting ends.

Sprinters will hold the spotlight this week because the Rush handicap, a $7,500 event, is down for a decision next Saturday afternoon. The route running handicap performers will have a chance to fight it out for the high honors in their division a week later.

The Rush handicap will attract unusual interest because the Anita Peabody, the best 3 year old filly owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago, will start. It will be the first time the daughter of Luke McLuck has come to the post before a friendly Chicago gathering since she gained fame by winning the Belmont Futurity last fall from her stablemate, Rachel Court, which this year won the Kentucky Derby.

Win or lose, Anita Peabody will get a tremendous reception if she goes to the post in the Rush. It is doubtful if Rachel Court could muster as many Chicago admirers as the filly in a parade to the post. For Anita Peabody is a native of Illinois and performed feats last year that only super thoroughbreds have been able to accomplish in other seasons.

More than 100 other sprinters from the east and west are eligible to race in the Rush handicap. Chief among Anita Peabody's rivals will be Starheart, Diener Dance, Florence Mills, Don Diego, Honi Bolt, Dark Phantom, Flatary, Arno, Flagstaff, Sir Harry and Mike Hall. It is possible that Helen's Babe, Bobbette's and Rotted Stocking will be brought here for the engagement.

Large Entries for Today.

Today's card at Arlington is featured by a mile and a sixteenth dash which engages Vellas, Longridge, Alexander Pantages, Dan Burnham, Shasta Nut and other fairly good performers. The other races are slated to attract the overflowing point with entries.

Voltair's impressive victory in the Juvenile stakes Saturday caused much comment in the local race colony yesterday. He won in a way to indicate he is of championship caliber, fairly smothering his stylish rivals after he began to take his task seriously in the run down the stretch.

Probably the next best 3 year old in the west is J. J. Coughlin's Roguish Eyes, which was not eligible to yesterday's race. But there will be plenty of opportunities for him to hook up with Voltair later in the season.

The upper line shows how The Tribune meets constantly rising unit costs and yet, as shown by the lower line, manages to hold down the cost per reader to advertisers.

FIFTEEN years ago—1913! Free lunch . . . $2 hats . . . $35 apartments . . . taxes weren't a catastrophe . . . the biggest schooner in town for a nickel . . . 5 cent cigars . . . a nickel on the "L" . . . room and bath for a dollar and a half. And now look what's happened! "If a man bites a dog, it's news," the old editorial axiom goes. It's news when the price of something is less than it was 15 years ago.

The cost of gathering news has risen. The demand for costly newspaper features is comparatively recent. Salaries and wages have increased. Paper, engraving, typesetting, supplies—nearly everything that goes into the making of a newspaper—have gone up in price.

And yet Tribune advertisers reach their prospects at less cost per reader than they did in 1913. The milline rate for The Daily Tribune has decreased 15%. The milline rate for The Sunday Tribune has decreased 8%.

Try Chicago First

Compared to the advances of other commodities, the high purchasing power of a Tribune advertiser's dollar is astonishing. Note the accompanying table and graphic illustrations of increased expenses The Tribune meets. Then compare the purchasing power of a dollar spent for Tribune advertising. How is it possible? Ownership of raw materials, production on a large scale, circulation increases undreamed of in any previous period of newspaper history have lowered the cost of Tribune advertising in the face of almost universal increases in other commodities.

Chicago is the logical city in which to start an advertising campaign. It is the logical market for any manufacturer to cultivate forcefully. And one newspaper, The Tribune, offering a remarkable economy in rate, dominates Chicago and Zone 7. It leads in city, in suburban, in Zone 7 and in total circulation.

Sells Tangible Circulation

Study, too, the quality of Tribune circulation. Note how strong it is in the best districts of Chicago—its weak spots are largely foreign. See how practically all of Tribune circulation is concentrated in the best counties of Zone 7 . . . how four-fifths of Sunday Tribune circulation is found in 204 trading centers in Zone 7. The Tribune asks no premium for its quality circulation. It charges on a quantity basis.

More than 50 pages in The Tribune Book of Facts are devoted to a thorough circulation analysis of The Tribune. For further details talk to a Tribune man.

New York, June 16.—(Special.)—

Waterbury also may be said of the last night's stock market. It must be noted that it has changed the Wall Street picture.

Steady knows what the wild stock market of a month or two ago expected to be in the end of its own career, but participants certainly did not look for the complete coming in of the ground as they have witnessed.

Some Financial Landmarks.

This was a landmark, like the 1,000,000 shares of April, 1921. It was, however, immediately preceded and followed by other landmarks of even greater significance. The stock exchange had begun to accustom itself to a broker's loss account that had crossed the $1,000,000 line in May, but it was not prepared for last week's rise of nearly half a billion from the level of $1,000,000,000 as a company.

The was the unpleasant end of "recessing."

The last week's precipitous break in price, carrying the "average" down 15 points from the high mark of five weeks ago and wiping out 25 to 30 points from the price of such shares as General Motors, International Harvester, Du Pont and the airplane, frankly was recognized by Wall Street, for a day at its rate, as the inevitable reckoning for the previous speculative mania which had preceded it.

It also is a rule of the game, however, that when price recovers sharply (as they always do) from the low level of the day of only demoralization, the same Wall Street should begin once more to revise its ideas of the future.

See Changes Occur.

When the stock market's promoters emerged on previous occasions of the end from the pile of disintegrated buildings, which had descended on their shoulders, their second impressions were varied pretty widely, and so, after a longer or shorter pause, has their subsequent performance.

After the stock exchange crash of 1927, the two or three months' pause in trading in the condition of the market, then the advance was resumed with greater enthusiasm than before. The collapse of stocks in April, 1926, was followed by six months' pausing, every experienced Wall Street observer putting its house in order against the much greater autumn storm which was seen to be impending.

Back of Bargain Buyers.

When the panic of 1927 and the break-down of 1928 had spent their force, the market recovered with much lessening violence that strikes in the corporation of 1927, which had been bought at the bargain price.

Trade reaction and harvest misfortune held recovery in check for a week after May, 1927, but the six or eight weeks which followed October, 1927, were not unproductive of what then was sometimes called the "Christian Science market"—meaning that, if Wall Street and the public only believed that nothing had happened, then nothing would have happened.

Standard Oil of New York.

C. V. Frankfort, Ind.—Standard Oil company of New York did not earn its dividends in 1927.

It reported net profit of $11,414,887 for the year, as compared with $12,716,503 in 1926.

This was equal to 66 cents a share on the $100 par value capital stock in 1927.

The company paid dividends of $1.00 a share in 1927.

The total payment of dividends there was a deficit of $15,774,000 in 1927, compared with surplus of $2,219,711 in 1926.

Total surplus stood at $24,754,712 at the end of 1927, against $24,651,700 at the end of 1926.

Current assets were $218,730,299 and current liabilities $11,490,112 at the end of 1927.

The net working capital of $177,

000,000 compares with $219,995,272 at the end of 1926.

The 1927 net profits were the smallest since 1921, when the company was much less physically.

The net profit, of course, was a poor one for the oil industry in general.

Dividends at the annual rate of $1.00

are being paid.

The poor showing in 1927 the company's proven earnings ability entitles it to a rather good rating.
